Background
What started in 1985 as a small group of multidisciplinary breast health professionals has continued to grow into an ever-increasing group of medical professionals who assemble to exchange information, network and learn from each other. The focus continues to be on the development, implementation and expansion of breast center programs to allow these experts to become informed of the most up-to-date breast care techniques and options available to their patients. With the addition of private sector businesses and corporations as part of the membership, breast health professionals are also kept informed about advances in equipment, technology, drugs and services available to them to improve patient quality care. Through monthly newsletters, an annual conference and networking throughout the year, NCBC members are kept informed of the changing breast health care world.

Mission: The National Consortium of Breast Centers is the premier interdisciplinary organization committed to the development, maintenance, advancement and improvement of the highest quality patient-focused Breast Centers by supporting education, certification and interdisciplinary communication among those we serve.

Vision: To positively impact quality breast care and improve the experience, satisfaction and outcomes of the breast care patient as well as the care providers while being recognized as the premier organization supporting interdisciplinary Breast Centers in the world.

Organizational Methodology: The organization's mission is achieved through evidence-based education, advocacy, certification and quality validation programs, with the goal of improving breast care for all. Interdisciplinary collaboration is promoted through networking opportunities among the Breast Center community.

The corporation is operated exclusively as an educational, scientific and charitable organization within the meaning of Section 501(c) (3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

The Members
Communication among breast health professionals is paramount to the NCBC. The NCBC newsletter, the "Breast Center Bulletin" is published bi-monthly and highlights programs and administrative tips. Centers around the country can emulate these to streamline operations and expand services to patients.

The NCBC Info Exchange Program/Blog allows members to request input from peers across the country on providing care, administrative considerations, protocols, salary ranges and other issues of concern and serves to foster nation-wide networking among the membership.

The web site “members only section” contains archives of all newsletters and allows access to all responses to each email question ever asked.

The web site also serves as a search tool. Breast health professionals can be located - each member is listed on the web site in the professional section. Breast health facilities can be identified - each facility is highlighted with a description of services and a picture. A business providing services and products to breast health professionals can be researched - each business is listed with a description and picture if provided.

The most important communication and networking opportunity is the NCoBC Annual Conference. Each spring the NCBC coordinates an annual breast center conference for members and guests. Consortium members only pay a nominal fee to cover meals and conference materials. Attendees meet and exchange information with other breast health professionals from around the world and form new relationships that expand collegial sharing throughout the remainder of the year. The focus of each conference varies as the issues facing breast health professionals change.

Presently, the NCBC has among its members, individuals that represent the medical fields of radiology, surgery, oncology, ob/gyn and pathology. The clinical fields are represented by members in all levels of counseling, oncology and clinical nursing as well as by nurse practitioners. Radiologic technology is also represented in the membership by radiologists specializing in breast imaging. Administrators and managers of breast centers are also included in the membership. These individuals represent centers that are freestanding, community hospital based and university hospital based. NCBC has members who work at women's centers, wellness centers, other non-profit organizations or are in private practice. Breast health consultants, authors, and representatives from the commercial sector, who deliver equipment and supplies to providers, rounds out the NCBC membership.

The members are the backbone to NCBC. These are the professionals who are committed to putting the patient first and who bring to our attention the challenges they face in providing patient care. The trustees are faced with determining how best to meet these needs, setting goals, creating committees, allocating resources and coming back to the membership to ask for volunteers to help implement programs to address these challenges. We look forward to allocating our resources and working with fellow breast health care professionals who strive daily to treat each patient as a very special person who deserves the best care that we, as professionals, can provide.
Corporations and Sole Proprietorships

This level of membership was created to inform NCBC members of the various private sector products and services available to them to improve patient care. The membership benefits were designed to provide a marketing mechanism for private sector business members to inform breast center members around the country about products and services. We trust that making information about products and services available to the membership will increase the opportunities to improve the care provided patients and will enhance the medical and administrative environment under which patient care is provided.

- Exhibit Space at the Annual Interdisciplinary Breast Center Conference – Each spring the NCBC coordinates an annual conference for breast health professionals and their guests. Attendees meet and exchange information with other breast care professionals from around the world and form new relationships to expand collegial sharing throughout the remainder of the year. Continuing education credits (CME’s and CEU’s) are offered for RT’s, RN’s and Physicians. The focus of each conference varies as the issues facing breast health professionals change. Exhibits are an important part of this conference. Exhibit space is located in the conference meeting area. This area is also where all meal and reception functions are held. It has been found that exhibits in the meeting room draw more interest. Conference attendance has been between 725-925 attendees. Please see page 6 for exhibit space costs.

Along with exhibit space at the annual conference, exhibitors are encouraged to take advantage of the many avenues of marketing available through the NCBC. These programs bring awareness to your specific product or service and or increase traffic to your exhibit booth at the conference. Please contact NCBC staff for current rates to the following marketing options:

- Marketing Opportunity - Newsletter – The Breast Center Bulletin now offers advertising as well as the opportunity to write an editorial regarding their organization or products. The Breast Center Bulletin is the NCBC’s newsletter that contains articles highlighting issues involved in managing breast centers, spotlight articles on specific breast centers and their activities, psychosocial aspects of breast health care, updates on breast health care legislation and information on the organization and its members.

- Marketing Opportunity - NCBC Website Rotating Banners – Announcements about products, services, special offers, etc., as well as company logos and slogans, can run as a banner ad on the new NCBC website. The banner appears on every page of the website. Banners rotate and are limited to five per month to allow for maximum visibility. Members receive a 50% discount on all forms of advertising.

- Marketing Opportunity - Email – The NCBC office sends an average of 10 e-mails each month to all NCBC members. Banners similar to the website banners can be placed on those e-mails to let members know about products, services, new approvals, etc. Members receive a 50% discount on all forms of advertising.

- Marketing Opportunity - Email Blasts – This opportunity is to increase product visibility and highlight new services. This opportunity was offered in a limited capacity to promote vendor booth location and products at the up-coming conference. Due to the positive response from both the vendors and conference attendees, we have decided to offer this form of advertising year-round. Email blasts can be sent out to all members in html format or a text blurb with linked photos and/or graphics. Members receive a 50% discount on all forms of advertising. Note: Email blasts not available Jan - March. Only available for sponsors with all year paid or Silver & above sponsors.

- Internet Directory of Businesses Providing Services/Products to Professionals – Each business and corporate member is listed in the Breast Health Business Services and Products Directory and has its own listing on the NCBC website. The listing for each member contains: the business name and location; the name and title of a contact person; a descriptive narrative about the business and services/products; a picture of products; and a hot link to the business’s website. Individuals visiting the NCBC website will be able to search the Business Directory to locate specific products by searching with a keyword. It is hoped this will serve as another marketing tool for business members and provide information to professionals.
